DS-001: SESSION 3 FULL SCRIPT — WEIGHT MANAGEMENT PIVOT

DS-001 (Deepak S., 56) | Date: Oct 22, 2026, 4:30 PM PST | Zoom | SLEEP-004 | 76% Physical, Kinesthetic-dominant | THERAPIST ONLY — DO NOT DISTRIBUTE

SESSION OVERVIEW

[Session 2b (Oct 15) completed: Sorting Room, Settling Pond, Island Cabin (with airway), Pillow Trigger, Night-Waking Reset. Breakthrough night before S2b: onset 15 min (was 35), refreshed morning, full ritual compliance, SpO2 98%. Mouth breathing identified as primary snoring cause. Nasal breathing intervention taught. Weight management identified as next focus. Emotional eating = dopamine/serotonin substitution. 3 hrs exercise/day, 12K steps, but consistently overeats. Sleep apnea catch-22: apnea disrupts cortisol/ghrelin/leptin, weight loss would reduce throat tissue. THIS session pivots to WEIGHT MANAGEMENT as primary, sleep as secondary maintenance.]

SESSION PIVOT: Sleep system is installed and running. This session addresses WEIGHT MANAGEMENT (emotional eating, portion control, late-night eating) as primary presenting issue. Sleep maintenance as secondary reinforcement. PHS "Deep Sleep" re-entry anchor already installed from S1/S2.

PHYSICAL LANE REMINDER (76% Physical): Direct. Literal. Specific. No "you may notice" — use "you ARE." Power words: NOW, INSTANTLY, AUTOMATICALLY, LOCKS, HOLDS, FIRES. Kinesthetic anchors: thumb-and-finger press, stomach signal, fork weight. Every PHS ends with the full formula.

STEP 1: SLEEP CHECK-IN + TRANSITION (10 MIN, CONSCIOUS)

[Last session (Oct 15): breakthrough night before S2b. Full ritual compliance. Onset 15 min. Refreshed morning. SpO2 98%. Pillow Trigger + Night-Waking Reset installed. Check if gains held over the past week. Weight management discussion began at end of S2b — client receptive. He is traveling to San Jose first week Nov.]

"Deepak, welcome back. Good to see you. Before we get into the new work today, I want to check in on the sleep. How has sleep been since our last session?"

"Walk me through it. Take me through the last week. Are you still doing the full ritual every night?"

"The Pillow Trigger — when your head hits the pillow, is the Depth Dial turning itself down? Or are you still doing it manually, step by step?"

"Night-waking — if you woke up in the night at all, did you use the hand-on-chest reset? Place your hand on the sternum, one 4-7-8 breath? How fast did you get back to sleep?"

"Morning — how are you feeling when you wake up? On a scale of 1 to 10, where 1 is exhausted and 10 is fully restored. What number?"

"And the nasal breathing — have you been sleeping with your mouth closed? Did your wife notice a difference in the snoring?"

IF sleep is holding (expected): Celebrate the wins. Reinforce that the system works. Then transition to weight. Do NOT linger — the sleep is the foundation, weight is today's work.

"Good. That is exactly what we built. The sleep system is installed and running. The Depth Dial holds. The Pillow Trigger fires. The ritual is becoming automatic. That is your foundation. Solid."

"Now we shift focus. The sleep system stays on — it runs in the background from this point forward. Like an operating system. You do not need to think about it. It just runs."

"Today we address something you told me is connected to the sleep. And it IS connected. The weight."

IF sleep regressed: Troubleshoot briefly (ritual compliance? travel? environment change?). Do NOT spend more than 3 extra minutes. The installations are in place — regression is almost certainly external disruption (environment, travel, missed ritual), not installation failure. Reinforce the ritual, address the disruption, and pivot to weight.

IF Pillow Trigger is manual, not automatic yet: "That is normal. The Pillow Trigger was installed one week ago. For most people it takes two to three weeks to go fully automatic. Right now you are aware of it. You are turning the dial consciously. That awareness phase is part of the process. It will automate. Keep doing it consciously and the subconscious takes over."

THE CATCH-22 FRAME

"Let me frame what we are doing today and why it matters for everything — including the sleep."

"The sleep apnea and the weight are locked in a catch-22. I mentioned this last session. Let me go deeper."

"Here is the mechanism. I want you to understand this clearly because it explains why willpower alone has not worked."

"The apnea disrupts your sleep. Every time the airway narrows and the brain micro-wakes — and this can happen dozens or hundreds of times per night, most of which you never remember — cortisol spikes. When cortisol is chronically elevated, it disrupts two specific hormones: ghrelin and leptin."

"Ghrelin tells you when you are hungry. Leptin tells you when you are full. When cortisol stays high, ghrelin goes UP and leptin goes DOWN. Your body literally signals MORE hunger and LESS satisfaction from food. That is not willpower failure. That is a hormonal cascade driven by disrupted sleep."

"At the same time, the specialists have told you that losing weight would reduce the throat tissue and improve the apnea. Less tissue around the airway. More space to breathe. Better oxygen flow. Deeper sleep."

"So the apnea makes weight loss harder. And the weight makes apnea worse. Each feeds the other. That is the catch-22."

"We break the cycle from the behavioral side. Your body is already doing the work — three hours of exercise, twelve thousand steps a day. The engine is running. The effort is there. The issue is not effort. The issue is what happens between meals. The fuel management. That is where the subconscious is running an old program. And that is what we reprogram today."

"When the weight starts coming off — and it does not need to be dramatic, even modest loss makes a measurable difference — the airway opens. The sleep deepens further. The cortisol drops. The hunger hormones normalize. The catch-22 reverses into a positive spiral. Weight loss feeds better sleep. Better sleep feeds easier weight management. The two systems amplify each other. We start the spiral today."

"And the research supports this. There is a study from Oxford — Stradling, 1998 — showing that hypnotherapy combined with stress reduction maintained a 3.8 kilogram weight loss at eighteen months. That is the behavioral piece we are adding today."

STEP 2: WEIGHT MANAGEMENT INTAKE (15 MIN, CONSCIOUS)

> [L.O.V.E. intake: Listen, Observe, Validate, Explore. Physical lane: ask direct, specific questions. Get concrete data. No vague "how does food make you feel" — get the WHEN, WHERE, WHAT, and WHY of overeating. Map the timeline. Identify the emotional triggers. Get the substitution pattern.]

"Now I need to understand the eating. Not what you eat — how you eat. The pattern, the timing, the triggers. I am going to ask you a series of direct questions. Take your time with each one. Be honest. There are no wrong answers here."

EATING PATTERN MAPPING

"Walk me through a typical day of eating. Start from when you wake up. First thing in the morning — what do you eat or drink? When? Where?"

> [Record breakfast: time, what, where. Then ask about each meal.]

"That is important. Let me make sure I understand. So breakfast is [reflect back what he said]. Good. Now lunch. What time? What do you eat? Where — at your desk, at a table, on the go?"

"Thank you for being honest about that. Now tell me about what happens between breakfast and lunch — anything? Snacks? Coffee with food? Anything at all?"

"That pattern makes sense given what you described. Here is the next question. Now dinner. Walk me through a typical dinner. What time. What you eat. How much. Are you eating alone or with family?"

"That is helpful. I am building a picture of the full day. After dinner — this is the critical window. What happens between dinner and bed? Any food? Snacks? Late-night eating? Anything after seven PM?"

[Map the complete daily timeline. Key windows to identify: (1) between meals, (2) after dinner, (3) late night. Expected: the between-meals and after-dinner windows are where the overeating lives.]

THE OVEREATING PATTERN

"Now tell me about the overeating specifically. When it happens — is it at meals, where you eat too much at the table? Or between meals, where you reach for food when it is not mealtime? Or both?"

"That is important. Let me make sure I understand what you are describing. So [reflect back]. When you overeat at a meal — what does that look like? Second helpings? Eating past full? Cleaning the plate even when you are done?"

"Thank you for being honest about that. Now tell me about the other side. When you eat between meals — what are you reaching for? What kind of food?"

"That pattern makes sense given what you described. Here is the next question, and it is the key one: when you overeat, are you HUNGRY? Or is something else driving it? Think about the last time it happened. Were you actually physically hungry — stomach empty, body needing fuel? Or was it something else?"

EMOTIONAL TRIGGER IDENTIFICATION

"What emotions are present when you reach for food outside of meals? Think about the last three times it happened. What was going on in your life in that moment?"

"That is important. Let me make sure I understand what you are describing. Were you stressed? Tired? Bored? Celebrating? Processing something from work? Decompressing after a long day? What was the feeling state?"

"Thank you for being honest about that. Now tell me about the timing. Is there a time of day when the overeating is worst? Is it consistent? Same time every day, or does it vary?"

"That pattern makes sense given what you described. Here is the next question. What role does food play beyond nutrition for you? And I want you to be completely honest with me here. Comfort? Reward? Social connection? Something to do when you are bored? A way to decompress? A way to feel good when something is not going well?"

[Expected answers: late-night eating, stress/reward eating, dopamine-seeking pattern. His 3 hrs exercise + 12K steps means the physical activity is not the issue. The behavioral pattern between meals IS the issue. Listen for: (1) specific trigger emotions, (2) specific trigger times, (3) specific trigger situations. These become the targets for S4 deepening.]

HISTORY AND BELIEFS

"Have you tried diets before? Which ones? What happened?"

"When you tried to restrict food in the past, how long did it last before the old pattern came back? Days? Weeks? Months?"

"What was the longest you sustained a diet? And what broke it? What was the specific event or moment that caused the old pattern to return? I ask because that breaking point — whatever it was — tells me where the subconscious program is strongest."

"And when the old pattern came back, did it come back gradually or all at once?"

"One more question, and this one matters most. If you could never change your weight — the number on the scale stayed exactly where it is — but you could change your relationship with food, what would that look like?"

[This separates the emotional pattern from the number. His answer reveals what he truly wants to change. Write it down verbatim — it becomes the treatment frame for the weight work.]

PHYSICAL LANE SUMMARY

"Here is what I am hearing. Your body is doing three hours of exercise and twelve thousand steps every day. The physical effort is there. The machine is running at full capacity. The issue is the fuel management system. Too much fuel going in, and the timing is wrong."

"And it is not a knowledge problem. You know what to eat. You know when to stop. You know the calories, the portions, the timing. But the subconscious runs a program that overrides the knowledge. The 88 percent overrides the 12 percent. That program was installed a long time ago, and it fires automatically. You do not choose it. It runs."

"That is what we change today. Not the knowledge. Not the effort. Not the willpower. The automatic program underneath both."

"And here is why I am confident. You already proved with the sleep work that the subconscious responds to this approach. The Pillow Trigger is an automatic program. The Depth Dial is an automatic program. The Night-Waking Reset is an automatic program. None of those require willpower. They run because we installed them. We do the same thing today for eating."

STEP 3: SMART BASELINES FOR WEIGHT (5 MIN, CONSCIOUS)

[SUBJECTIVE measures only. No scale numbers. No calorie counts. No biometric targets. HMI rule: therapist cannot commit to measurable weight loss outcomes. These are behavioral and awareness baselines. We recheck in 2-3 sessions.]

"Before we go into trance, I want to establish six baselines. These are all 1-to-10 scales. Be honest. There is no right answer. I just need to know where you are today so we can measure the change."

"Number one. Control over eating decisions. 1 means you feel no control — the eating happens to you. 10 means you feel full control — every bite is a conscious choice. Where are you?"

"Number two. Awareness of when you are actually hungry versus eating for other reasons. 1 means you have no idea — you just eat. 10 means you always know whether the drive is physical hunger or something else. Where are you?"

"Number three. Ability to stop eating when satisfied. Not full. Not stuffed. Satisfied. The point where the body has had enough. 1 means you never stop there. 10 means you always stop at satisfied. Where are you?"

"Number four. Emotional eating frequency. How often is your eating driven by emotion rather than hunger? 1 means rarely. 10 means most meals are driven by some emotion — stress, boredom, reward, comfort. Where are you?"

"Number five. Late-night or stress eating specifically. 1 means it never happens. 10 means it happens every single night. Where are you?"

"Number six. Confidence in your ability to change these eating patterns. Not willpower. Confidence that the patterns CAN change. 1 means no confidence at all. 10 means absolute certainty. Where are you?"

#	MEASURE	SCALE	BASELINE
1	Control over eating decisions	1 = no control, 10 = full control	___/10
2	Awareness of hungry vs. eating for other reasons	1 = no awareness, 10 = always know	___/10
3	Ability to stop eating when satisfied	1 = never stop, 10 = always stop at enough	___/10
4	Emotional eating frequency	1 = rarely, 10 = most meals driven by emotion	___/10
5	Late-night / stress eating	1 = never, 10 = every night	___/10
6	Confidence in ability to change eating patterns	1 = no confidence, 10 = certain	___/10

"Good. I am recording all six. We will check them again after two to three sessions and see where the numbers move. No judgment on where you are today. This is just the starting line."

"For reference, most clients see the biggest initial shift in numbers one, two, and five — control, awareness, and late-night eating. Those respond fastest to the subconscious reprogramming. Emotional eating frequency usually shifts more slowly because it is deeper wiring. Confidence tends to rise as the other numbers improve. We will track all six."

STEP 4: EDUCATION — HOW EMOTIONAL EATING WORKS (10 MIN, CONSCIOUS)

[Theory of Mind adapted for eating. Kappasinian model: 88% subconscious runs the eating program. 12% conscious willpower cannot override it long-term. The reprogramming happens in trance. Physical lane: use machine/firmware metaphors. Direct language. No hedging. This is the conscious setup for the trance work.]

THE 88/12 SPLIT FOR EATING

"Let me explain what is happening in your mind when you overeat. This uses the same model we discussed for sleep — the 88/12 split."

"Your conscious mind — the 12 percent — knows exactly what to do. Eat less. Stop at enough. No food after seven PM. Choose protein over carbs. You have that knowledge. You have had it for years. It is not a knowledge problem."

"But the subconscious — the 88 percent — runs a different program. That program was installed years ago, probably decades ago. Here is how it happened."

"At some point in your life — maybe childhood, maybe adolescence, maybe later — your brain learned that food changes how you feel. When you were stressed, someone offered food and the stress decreased. When you were tired, eating gave you energy. When you were celebrating, food was at the center. When you were bored, food was something to do."

"And every single time that happened, your brain recorded the association. Stress equals eat equals feel better. Boredom equals eat equals stimulation. Tired equals eat equals energy. Celebration equals eat equals pleasure. Over thousands of repetitions, that association became HARDWIRED. Automatic. It fires before the conscious mind even registers what is happening."

THE NEUROCHEMISTRY

"Here is the chemistry. Eating triggers dopamine. Dopamine is the reward chemical. The brain's way of saying: that was good, do it again. Food — especially sugar, fat, and salt — triggers a significant dopamine release."

"Eating also triggers serotonin. Your gut produces approximately 90 percent of the body's serotonin. Serotonin is the calm, content, everything-is-okay chemical. When you eat, you are literally changing your brain chemistry. You feel better. Immediately."

"That is why it works. That is why the pattern is so powerful. It is not imaginary comfort. It is real, measurable, neurochemical comfort. Your body is self-medicating with food."

"But the effect is temporary. The dopamine spike lasts minutes. Then the crash comes. After the eating, the guilt arrives. The frustration. The self-judgment. More stress. Which triggers — more eating. The cycle reinforces itself every single time it runs."

WHY WILLPOWER FAILS

"Willpower — the 12 percent — can hold for a few days. Maybe a few weeks on a good run. But the 88 percent always wins a war of attrition. Always. That is not a character flaw. That is architecture. The subconscious is designed to be more powerful than the conscious mind. It runs your heart, your lungs, your digestion, your immune system. It also runs your eating patterns."

"That is why every diet eventually fails when it relies on willpower alone. You are deploying 12 percent of your resources against 88 percent. The math does not work. It never will."

"We do not fight the subconscious. We reprogram it. We work WITH the 88 percent, not against it."

THE EMOTIONAL PAUSE

"Right now, the pattern runs like this: trigger, eat. Trigger could be stress, boredom, fatigue, habit, time of day, social cue. The trigger fires and the hand reaches for food before you even register what happened. There is no gap. It is automatic. Like blinking."

"What we install today is a PAUSE between the trigger and the action. The pattern becomes: trigger, PAUSE, choose, act."

"In that pause — which lasts about five seconds — one question rises from your subconscious: What do I actually need right now? Am I hungry? Or am I feeding something else?"

"If the answer is hungry — the pause releases. You eat. You enjoy it. No guilt. No shame. Food is fuel and the body needs fuel."

"If the answer is something else — stress, boredom, reward, habit, loneliness, fatigue — the pause holds. You breathe. You press your thumb and finger together. And the craving passes. Every craving — every single one — passes in about 90 seconds if you do not feed it."

"That pause is what we install in trance today. Once installed, it runs automatically. You do not have to remember it. You do not have to force it. The subconscious runs it for you. Just like the Pillow Trigger runs your sleep."

FIRMWARE UPDATE METAPHOR

"Think of it this way. Your body is a machine. A very powerful machine — three hours of exercise, twelve thousand steps, that is a high-performance engine. The hardware is excellent. But the fuel management system has a firmware bug."

"The sensor that says 'enough fuel' is being overridden by a subroutine that says 'fuel equals comfort.' The fuel gauge reads empty even when the tank is full, because the system is not measuring fuel — it is measuring emotional state."

"We are not changing the machine. The machine is excellent. We are updating the firmware. After today, the fuel management system reads the signals correctly. Hungry means fuel needed. Not hungry means stop. The emotional override is patched out. The sensor works properly."

"One more thing before we go in. The recording I make today — from the trance work through the count out — is for you. I want you to listen to it once, in bed, before sleep. When you listen to it in that relaxed state, the suggestions reinforce. They stack on top of what we do live today. The recording is not a replacement for the session. It is a booster. One listen per day for the first week. After that, once every few days."

"Ready to go in?"

STEP 5: INDUCTION (5 MIN)

> [PHS re-entry from sleep sessions. "Deep Sleep" anchor already installed and tested across S1, S2a, S2b. He goes deep fast now — three sessions of conditioning. Abbreviated induction. TIME the re-entry and compare to S2b.]

"Good. Get comfortable. Feet flat on the floor. Hands resting on your thighs. Let your shoulders drop. Good."

"Close your eyes. Take a deep breath. Fill your lungs completely. And let it out slowly."

"Raise your arm. Palm in front of your face. Stare at your middle finger."

"Fingers separating. Separating, wider and wider. Hand moving toward your forehead. With every breath, closer. Magnetic pull drawing hand and head together."

"When your hand touches your forehead and you give me a nod — Deep Sleep." [Snap.]

> "Each and every time I suggest the words Deep Sleep to you, for the purpose of hypnosis and with your permission, you will enter this state of hypnosis very quickly, calmly, and deeply, and the physical body will relax."

> [RECORD PHS re-entry time: ___ seconds. Compare to S2b entry time.]

5-0 COUNT

"Hand down to your side. Comfortable."

"Five — going down. Deeper. Four — releasing every muscle. Three — deeper still. The world outside fades. Two — approaching delta. The familiar territory. One — delta territory. Deep. Still. Zero — Deep Sleep." [Snap.]

> "Each and every time I suggest the words Deep Sleep to you, for the purpose of hypnosis and with your permission, you will enter this state of hypnosis very quickly, calmly, and deeply, and the physical body will relax."

REACTIONAL x2

"Open your eyes." [Wait 2 sec.] "Deep Sleep." [Snap.] "Twice as deep."

> "Each and every time I suggest the words Deep Sleep to you, for the purpose of hypnosis and with your permission, you will enter this state of hypnosis very quickly, calmly, and deeply, and the physical body will relax."

"Open your eyes." [Wait 2 sec.] "Deep Sleep." [Snap.] "Twice as deep."

> "Each and every time I suggest the words Deep Sleep to you, for the purpose of hypnosis and with your permission, you will enter this state of hypnosis very quickly, calmly, and deeply, and the physical body will relax."

BRIEF PROGRESSIVE RELAXATION

> [He is deep fast after 3 sessions. Keep this to 30-45 seconds. Physical lane: specific body parts, weight, temperature.]

"Now a wave of deep relaxation moves through your body. Starting at the top of your head. A warm, heavy wave. Moving down across your forehead. Smoothing out every line. Relaxing the muscles around your eyes. Your jaw unclenches. Your shoulders drop. Heavy. Your arms are heavy at your sides. Your hands are warm."

"The wave continues down through your chest. Your breathing is slow. Deep. Automatic. The wave moves through your stomach. [Pause.] Your hips. Your thighs. Heavy against the chair. Your knees. Your calves. Your feet flat on the floor."

"Every muscle in your body is released. Heavy. Still. Comfortable. Deep."

STEP 6: THERAPEUTIC SUGGESTIONS — WEIGHT MANAGEMENT (15 MIN)

START RECORDING HERE. Everything from this point through the count out (Step 8) goes to the client as an audio file for nightly reinforcement.

PHYSICAL LANE: Direct commands. "You ARE." "From this moment forward." "Automatically." "Instantly." No "you might" or "perhaps" or "you may notice." Power delivery. Kinesthetic anchors throughout. Five installations with ideomotor nod checks after each.

6a: EMOTIONAL PAUSE INSTALLATION

"From this moment forward, a new program runs in your subconscious mind. It is automatic. It is permanent. It requires no effort, no thought, no willpower. It activates every single time you reach for food outside of a scheduled meal."

"Here is how it works."

"The hand reaches for food. And a pause activates. [Long pause.] Not willpower. Not effort. Not you telling yourself to stop. An automatic pause. Instant. Like a circuit breaker tripping in an electrical panel. The hand stops. The motion freezes. And in that pause, one question rises from your subconscious mind. Clear. Direct. Unmistakable."

"Am I hungry? Or am I feeding something else?"

"You hear that question clearly. It is not a whisper. It is loud. It demands an answer."

"If the answer is hungry — if the stomach is empty, if the body genuinely needs fuel — the pause releases. You eat. You enjoy every bite. No guilt. No shame. No restriction. The body needs fuel and you give it fuel. That is health."

"If the answer is something else — stress, boredom, reward, habit, loneliness, fatigue, the need to feel good, the need to decompress — the pause holds. Firmly. Calmly. Without struggle. Without white-knuckle resistance."

"In that pause, you take one 4-7-8 breath. Tongue on the ridge behind your upper teeth. In through the nose for four. Hold for seven. Out through the mouth for eight. On the exhale, you press your thumb and index finger together. [Pause.] Feel the pressure between thumb and finger. That pressure is the anchor. That physical contact fires the same calming signal as the Night-Waking Reset. Parasympathetic activation. Vagus nerve engagement. The nervous system shifts from craving to calm."

"The craving passes. Every craving passes in ninety seconds. The thumb and finger hold for ninety seconds. The breath holds. And the craving dissolves. Not suppressed. Not fought. Not locked in a box. Dissolved. Like a wave that reaches the shore and pulls back into the ocean. It was never solid. It was just energy. And energy dissipates."

"This pause is installed now. It is part of your operating system. It runs automatically. You do not have to remember it. You do not have to summon it. You do not have to force it. It fires on its own. Every single time. From this moment forward."

"And this pause works in two places. Between meals — when you reach for food you did not plan. AND during meals — when you have had enough but the fork keeps moving."

"During a meal, the pause sounds different. It is not 'am I hungry?' — you are already eating. It is 'am I still hungry, or am I eating because the food is there?' When the answer shifts from hungry to habit, the fork goes down. Not because you are told to. Because the pause told you the truth."

"Subconscious mind, when the Emotional Pause is fully installed and will activate automatically from this moment forward, let a nod happen."

> [Wait for ideomotor nod. Record: strong / weak / none.]

> "Each and every time I suggest the words Deep Sleep to you, for the purpose of hypnosis and with your permission, you will enter this state of hypnosis very quickly, calmly, and deeply, and the physical body will relax."

6b: PORTION AWARENESS

"Your stomach has a signal. A physical, measurable signal. It fires when you have had enough. Not full. Not stuffed. Not uncomfortable. Not in pain. Just enough. Satisfied. The point where the body says: I have what I need."

"That signal has been there your entire life. It is hardwired into the physiology. Every human being has it. It is the satiety signal — the moment when leptin and the stretch receptors in the stomach wall send a message to the brain: enough fuel received."

"But that signal was buried. The noise of the emotional eating program drowned it out. The dopamine override made it invisible. The habit of eating past satisfied — clearing the plate, getting seconds, finishing the bag — trained the brain to ignore it."

"From this moment forward, you hear that signal clearly. It is not buried anymore. It is loud. It is unmistakable. It is the clearest signal in your body. Like a bell ringing in a silent room."

"When you eat, you notice the moment the signal fires. The stomach sends one clear message: enough. [Long pause.] And you feel it. In your stomach. In your chest. A physical sensation of completion. Satisfaction. Not deprivation. Satisfaction."

"And when that signal fires, your hand puts down the fork. Automatically. Without decision. Without willpower. Without negotiation. Without argument. The signal IS the instruction. The hand obeys the signal. The fork rests on the plate. The meal is complete."

"You feel satisfied. Not deprived. Not restricted. Not punished. Satisfied. Complete. The body got what it needed. The fuel tank reads the correct level. And the hand stops. Naturally."

"This is not a diet. This is not restriction. This is not counting or measuring or tracking. This is your body's natural fuel gauge working correctly for the first time in years. The sensor was always there. Now it is calibrated. Now it is audible. Now it works."

"Subconscious mind, when the portion awareness signal is fully restored and the hand will respond to it automatically, let a nod happen."

> "Each and every time I suggest the words Deep Sleep to you, for the purpose of hypnosis and with your permission, you will enter this state of hypnosis very quickly, calmly, and deeply, and the physical body will relax."

6c: FOOD AS FUEL (NOT COMFORT)

"Food is fuel for the machine. Premium fuel. Your body is a high-performance engine and it deserves premium fuel. Not junk. Not filler. Not whatever is closest. Premium."

"From this moment forward, when you eat, you eat with full awareness. Complete, present, undivided awareness. Every bite."

"You taste each bite. You notice the texture. The temperature. The flavor as it changes while you chew. The complexity of the food. You chew slowly. Deliberately. Twenty times before you swallow. You put the fork down between bites. You give your body time to register what it is receiving."

"When you eat this way — slowly, with attention, with presence — something remarkable happens. The dopamine still comes. But it comes from the quality of the experience, not the quantity of the food. One bite eaten with full awareness produces more genuine satisfaction than ten bites eaten on autopilot while scrolling a phone or watching a screen."

"The old program said: more food equals more comfort. Volume equals pleasure. The new program says: better attention equals more satisfaction. Less volume. More experience. More taste. More presence. The equation shifts."

"You eat for fuel. You eat for performance. You eat to give the machine exactly what it needs — no more, no less. And you enjoy every single bite. Because when you are truly present with your food, when you actually taste it, the enjoyment is real. Not manufactured by quantity. Not numbed by speed. Real."

"Subconscious mind, when food is registered as fuel for the machine and eating with full awareness is the new default, let a nod happen."

[Wait for ideomotor nod. Record: strong / weak / none.]

> "Each and every time I suggest the words Deep Sleep to you, for the purpose of hypnosis and with your permission, you will enter this state of hypnosis very quickly, calmly, and deeply, and the physical body will relax."

6d: LATE-NIGHT / STRESS EATING REDIRECT

"After seven PM, the kitchen closes. [Long pause.]"

"Not because you are forbidden. Not because someone is punishing you. Not because a rule says so. Because your body does not need fuel at that hour. The engine is winding down. The day's work is done. The body needs rest now, not fuel. It needs preparation for sleep."

"You already know this works. You already proved it to yourself. The breakthrough night — the best sleep you have had since we started — you had no food after seven PM. That was not coincidence. That was cause and effect. No late fuel means the digestive system shuts down for the night. The body shifts from processing mode to repair mode. The blood goes to the brain and muscles instead of the gut. The sleep deepens."

"After seven PM, you walk past the kitchen and the kitchen is done. Not tempting. Not calling. Not forbidden. Done. Like a restaurant that has closed for the night. The lights are off. The stoves are cold. There is nothing there for you. And that feels natural."

"When the late-night craving appears — and it will appear, especially in the first few days, because the old program will test the new one — you recognize it instantly. That is not hunger. That is the old pattern making its last run. The ghost of the old firmware sending a test signal."

"And you already know what to do. The Emotional Pause fires. Your thumb and index finger press together. You take one 4-7-8 breath. You turn the Depth Dial one notch toward sleep. And the craving passes in ninety seconds. Every time. Ninety seconds. That is all it takes."

"The old program sends one pulse. Ninety seconds of signal. And then silence. And the more times it sends that pulse and gets no response, the weaker the signal becomes. Like a battery running down. Within two weeks, the pulse barely registers. Within a month, the kitchen closes at seven and it feels natural. Obvious. Permanent. Like it was always that way."

"Subconscious mind, when the late-night eating redirect is fully installed and the kitchen closes at seven PM every night automatically, let a nod happen."

[Wait for ideomotor nod. Record: strong / weak / none.]

> "Each and every time I suggest the words Deep Sleep to you, for the purpose of hypnosis and with your permission, you will enter this state of hypnosis very quickly, calmly, and deeply, and the physical body will relax."

6e: WEIGHT AND SLEEP CONNECTION — THE POSITIVE SPIRAL

"Now your subconscious mind connects two systems. The sleep system that is already installed and running. And the weight management system that was just installed today. They are not separate programs. They are one integrated system."

"As the weight releases — pound by pound, gradually, steadily, week by week — the throat tissue reduces. The airway opens one millimeter wider. Then another. The breathing becomes easier. The snoring decreases. The micro-arousals that disrupted your deep sleep decrease. The delta sleep deepens. The restoration improves."

"Each pound lost is a gift to your sleep. The airway opens. The oxygen flows easier. The cortisol drops one notch. The ghrelin normalizes one increment. The leptin signal strengthens. The body stops demanding fuel it does not need."

"And each night of deeper sleep is a gift to your weight management. When you sleep deeply, the cortisol drops further. The hunger hormones balance further. The willpower reservoir refills. The emotional eating triggers weaken. The morning starts with clarity instead of fog."

"The catch-22 reverses. The negative spiral that has been running for years — poor sleep making weight harder, weight making sleep worse — reverses direction. It becomes a positive spiral. Weight loss feeds better sleep. Better sleep feeds easier weight management. Each revolution of the spiral amplifies the other."

"And the spiral has already started. The sleep system is installed. It is running tonight. The Pillow Trigger fires. The Depth Dial locks. The ritual runs. And tonight, the weight system joins the sleep system. Two engines turning together. The positive spiral begins now."

"Subconscious mind, when the weight-sleep positive spiral is understood, accepted, and activated, let a nod happen."

> [Wait for ideomotor nod. Record: strong / weak / none.]

> "Each and every time I suggest the words Deep Sleep to you, for the purpose of hypnosis and with your permission, you will enter this state of hypnosis very quickly, calmly, and deeply, and the physical body will relax."

STEP 7: SLEEP MAINTENANCE REINFORCEMENT (3 MIN)

"Now a quick reinforcement of the sleep system. The installations from our previous sessions continue to run. Every night. Automatically. Without thought."

"The Pillow Trigger fires when your head touches the pillow. The physical sensation of your head sinking into the pillow activates the Depth Dial. The dial turns automatically through Surface, Shallow, Medium, Light, Deep, to Delta Lock. Four breaths. Four breaths to delta."

"The Sorting Room librarians begin processing the day's data. Faces to the Face Gallery. Words to the Language Wing. Routes to the Map Room. All below awareness."

"The Settling Pond clears. The particles drift down. The water goes still."

"The Island Cabin wraps you in restoration. Cedar and ocean air. Weighted blanket. Waves synchronized with breathing. Growth hormone flows. Cellular regeneration runs."

"The Night-Waking Reset holds. If you wake for any reason — hand on chest, one 4-7-8 breath, Depth Dial resets to Delta Lock. Back to delta in sixty seconds. No phone. No clock. No thinking. Just the hand, the breath, the dial."

"The airway stays open all night. The throat muscles hold firm. Jaw closed. Tongue on the ridge. Nasal breathing. Steady. Continuous. The Delta Lock holds AND the airway holds. Both locked. Both automatic."

"And now the weight system supports the sleep system directly. No food after seven means the digestive system is quiet when you lie down. The stomach is not working. The body shifts fully to repair mode. The sleep is deeper because the weight system is aligned with the sleep system. Both running. Both automatic. Both permanent."

STEP 8: COUNT OUT (3 MIN)

"Zero — sealing in every suggestion from today's session. [Long pause.] The Emotional Pause is installed. It fires automatically. The portion awareness signal is restored. The hand obeys the signal. Food is fuel for the machine. You eat with awareness. The kitchen closes at seven PM. The late-night craving dissolves in ninety seconds. The weight-sleep positive spiral is activated. The sleep system continues to run. All of these are permanent. All of these are automatic. All of these run without effort."

"One — slowly coming up. The body is at rest. The mind is clear. The new programs are running."

"Two — physically aware. Mentally alert. You can feel the chair under you. The room around you. Coming back to the present."

"Three — coming up higher. Tonight, the Emotional Pause activates for the first time. The kitchen closes at seven. The Pillow Trigger fires. Two systems working together. The spiral begins."

"Four — eyes beginning to flutter. Almost there. Energy returning."

"Five — EYES OPEN. WIDE AWAKE. 1-2-3-4-5 eyes open, wide awake."

STOP RECORDING.

STEP 9: PHS VERIFY (2 MIN)

"Welcome back. Take a moment. How do you feel?"

[Give him 30 seconds to orient. Let him describe the experience in his own words before testing.]

"Good. Let us do a quick test. Raise your arm. Palm facing you. Middle finger. Breathe. Fingers separating. Hand toward face. When it touches your forehead — nod. Deep Sleep." [Snap.]

[TIME IT with stopwatch. Compare to Step 5 re-entry. Should be equal or faster. Three sessions of conditioning means the PHS should be nearly instantaneous by now.]

"Good. 0 — Deep Sleep. [Pause.] One — coming up. Two — aware. Three — rising. Four — eyes fluttering. Five — EYES OPEN. Wide awake. 1-2-3-4-5."

"The PHS is holding strong. Getting faster every session. That is exactly how it should work. By the time we reach Session 5 or 6, the re-entry will be nearly instantaneous. A finger snap and you are there."

[RECORD: PHS verify time: ___ sec. Induction at Step 5 was: ___ sec. Faster? Y/N. Compare to S2b verify. Expected: under 15 seconds by now.]

STEP 10: HOMEWORK + CLOSE (5 MIN)

WEIGHT MANAGEMENT HOMEWORK (NEW)

"Here is your homework for this week. Five items for weight management. All simple. All specific. All actionable."

"Number one — Food journal. This is the most important one. Every day this week, write down what you eat, when you eat it, and WHY you ate it. Three columns: What. When. Why. For the Why column, write the honest answer. Was it hunger? Stress? Habit? Reward? Boredom? Social pressure? Tiredness? No judgment. No changing your behavior yet. Just observe and record. The awareness IS the intervention. The act of writing 'why' before you eat creates the pause."

"Number two — Practice the Emotional Pause. When you reach for food between meals, notice the pause. It is already installed. Just pay attention to it. Ask yourself: am I hungry, or am I feeding something else? If hungry, eat. If something else — thumb and finger together, one 4-7-8 breath, wait ninety seconds. Track how many times the pause fires this week. Write it in the journal."

"Number three — No food after seven PM. You already proved this works for sleep. Now it works for both systems. The kitchen closes at seven. If a craving hits after seven, use the pause protocol: thumb and finger, 4-7-8, ninety seconds."

"Number four — When a craving hits at any time of day or night: 4-7-8 breath plus thumb-and-finger anchor. Hold for ninety seconds. Let it pass. Count the ninety seconds if you need to. The craving will peak and dissolve."

"Number five — Eat slowly for at least one meal per day. Pick one meal — any meal. Put the fork down between bites. Taste each bite fully. Chew twenty times. Notice when the satisfied signal fires. Stop there. Not one bite past it."

SLEEP HOMEWORK (CONTINUING)

"Sleep ritual continues. Same stack. It is working. Keep running it."

"Ten PM — journal. Analysis, prediction, plan of record. Ten-fifteen — close the journal. Physically shut it. Ten-twenty — tension release. Fists, shoulders, face, fifteen seconds. Ten-twenty-five — in bed. Three cycles of 4-7-8, Depth Dial turns to Delta Lock. Ten-thirty — Pillow Trigger takes over."

"If you wake — hand on chest, one 4-7-8 breath, Depth Dial resets, back to delta in sixty seconds."

"Continue nasal breathing. Continue left-side sleeping when you can. Room at sixty-seven degrees. The full stack. It is working. It stays."

SCHEDULING

"You are traveling to San Jose the first week of November. The systems run while you travel — the Emotional Pause and the Pillow Trigger work in any city, any hotel. The food journal is especially important while traveling because travel is a trigger for many people. Different restaurants, social eating, disrupted routine. Journal everything."

"Let us schedule Session 4 for after you are back. Second week of November. What day works for you?"

> [Schedule S4: _____/_____/_____ at _____. Session 4 will: (1) review food journal data, (2) reinforce Emotional Pause based on actual triggers identified, (3) deepening suggestions targeted to his specific patterns, (4) continue sleep maintenance, (5) possibly introduce self-hypnosis teaching if time allows. The food journal data will determine the focus of S4.]

"Good. Between now and then, two systems run. The sleep ritual is automatic. The Emotional Pause is new — it will feel somewhat manual this week. You will notice it. By the time we meet again, it will be starting to automate."

"I will send you the recording from today's session. Listen to it once, in bed, before sleep. It reinforces both the weight management and sleep suggestions simultaneously. One recording, both systems."

"And the food journal is the most important homework item. I cannot emphasize this enough. The data you collect in that journal tells me exactly what we target in Session 4. The more honest the journal, the more precise the next session. If you ate a bag of chips at 10 PM because you were stressed about a deadline, write that down. No judgment from me. That data is clinical gold."

"Questions before we close?"

"Good session today, Deepak. Two systems installed and running. The positive spiral starts tonight."

"One last thing. Be patient with yourself this week. The Emotional Pause is brand new. You might catch it firing and still eat. That is okay. The fact that you NOTICED the pause — even if you ate anyway — means the installation is working. Awareness comes first. The behavioral change follows. Do not judge the first week. Just observe."

"Take the food journal seriously. It is your preparation for Session 4."

"See you in two weeks. Have a good trip to San Jose."
