Fear of Abandonment

Begin with your favorite Induction and Deepener from Hypnotic World.

You are now deeply and comfortably relaxed - and your subconscious mind is at the optimum level of trance to help you to overcome a problem that has been bothering you for a long time, and that is - your fear of being abandoned.

And even though you probably know - deep inside - that those whom you love are highly unlikely to leave you - the feelings have continued to torment you - which is why you have decided to take action and tackle that fear - and any anxieties associated to it - once and for all.

Now I would like to explain a little first of all about how anxiety works.

If you have ever played with a beach ball in a pool you will know that if you try to push it down, under the water - it will simply bob straight back up again.

Although we know that this happens because the ball is full of air, perhaps you can liken this process to your anxious feelings - and how trying to suppress them does no good - because what you really need to do is let every last bit of that air out.

It is possible that you have worked through any issues that you believed were behind your fear of abandonment - however - as you know - that old anxiety remains - and the reason for this is that you still have unresolved issues - which is what we are going address today - here in the safety of hypnosis - to free you from that anxiety - and the fear - once and for all.

So - if you are ready to work towards your freedom now - come with me - on a voyage of discovery - into your past.

I would like you now to recall the last time you experienced that fear of abandonment - and remember the thoughts that went through your mind.

Remember in as much detail as possible - where you were - what you were doing - who - if anyone - was with you - if they were going somewhere - where were they going - and why.

Bring the whole situation back into your mind - together with any feelings you experienced at the time.

Know that you are safe - here in hypnosis - even though you can sense those thoughts and feelings they are now here to help you - and it can be as though the whole experience is happening to someone else this time.

I will be quiet for a moment or two to allow all this information to flow into your awareness.

Pause for 20 to 30 seconds.

That’s good - and now I want you to hold onto those thoughts and feelings and notice exactly where in your body they are located.

Some people notice them in the pit of their stomach - others might notice a constriction around their throat or butterflies in their tummy - or they may simply be thoughts going round in your head.

Whatever - and wherever they - know you are safe - and experience them in as much detail as possible while I am quiet again for a few seconds.

Allow a shorter pause this time - noticing any facial grimaces or changes in your client.

Good - now I want you to use this experience to travel back through time to the very first episode you had of being abandoned or fearing that you had been - or were about to be - abandoned.

The feelings can guide you safely back into your past - perhaps to when you were very small - or maybe not so small - but certainly younger with less awareness of the world than you have now.

And you are drifting back in time - becoming younger - smaller - even your appearance has changed - although you may only sense subtle differences - but this doesn't matter.

All that matters is that you trust in your subconscious mind - know that you are safe - you are always safe and your presence here today is proof of that - because whatever happened to you - you survived.

Keep travelling back to the source of your fear - and if you are unsure - ask yourself - was this the first time I experienced this fear?  Is there anything else?

Perhaps you can imagine that first incident as though you are engulfed in a dense layer of mist - perhaps feeling alone - even though - in reality - there may have been others present.

And when you are certain - that this is the very first time you experienced your fear - see - or sense - or hear - or feel your adult self - the person you are - here in the safety of hypnosis - making its way through that mist - arms spreading and moving the mist away.

Until - all at once - you - as the child you are - here in this first experience of abandonment - are face to face with the you that you now are - you as a mature adult who has made their way through the varying stages of life - overcome all sorts of obstacles - loved - and been loved - lived and still living - that's right - the wonderful adult that you are now.

All these years you have walked hand in hand - you were never truly alone - you have friends and family who love you - you have people you know - perhaps those that you work with or live near - teachers - mentors - maybe even children or other acquaintances.

We all live in the centre of our own little world - in this capacity you are no different from anyone else.  There have always been others who were there for you - even though some may have had to move on through their own life path.

Allow your adult self to offer guidance to your younger self - feel the reassuring presence - and as the adult you now are - tell your younger self what it needs to know.

You are the only one who really knows what your younger self needs - but you have wisdom and experience - you have lived and still live - you exist - because you are a survivor - still travelling on your own life path.

I will be quiet for a few moments and in this ensuing silence - reassure your inner child and let it know that you are always here - to guide and to help - wherever you go and whatever happens.

Pause for approximately 30 seconds.

That's good - now see yourself travelling together through your path of life - hand in hand - your inner child and your adult self - passing through all the experiences you had where you felt that old fear of being abandoned.

Smile and wave to those experiences as you pass by - let them see that you survived - you are still here and have nothing to fear.

Any old worries or fears that you experienced at the time were magnified ten-fold.  The reason for this is that you were focusing on them to intently.

When you change your focus you can change your feelings - so - look forward now - look forward to a future where you can be free from unnecessary worry and distracting fears - after all - who knows what adventures are waiting for us just around the corner.

Life is a journey that we all travel - never really being certain of the future - but happy to anticipate - enjoy - and grasp new opportunities as they arise - to shine - and excel - wherever we can.

And you are taking this journey on your own two feet - as is everyone else that you pass by on this path of life.

You are independent - and happy to be so.  Your self-confidence is increasing as you realize that you don't really need others to walk by your side.

Of course, it’s nice when they do - but if their path leads them on a different journey then so be it.  You continue on yours and look forward from now on,

Allow your adult self to part from your inner child - for now.  Know too that you can always be together again should you wish - and your inner child can come forth and allow you to play.

You learned a lot from your inner child - you learned how to explore the world - to enjoy the pleasure of discovering new experiences.

Of course - there was pain at times - how do you know when times are good if there is nothing to compare it with - but now that you have emotionally grown up - you can take little setbacks that life throws at you - catch them in both hands and throw them back playfully - as you look for solutions to help you to find the way forward again.

As you know - you always end up on the right path once again - and this helps you to feel better and happier and more in control of your life.

Perhaps you can imagine those old fears as bubbles that your child has been blowing - and enjoy popping each one - knowing they won’t harm you - can’t harm you - because you are a survivor and life is too precious to waste on unnecessary worries and anxieties and fear.

In a moment, I will count you back to normal, conscious awareness - and as you return to the here and now - know too that you are free from your old fear of abandonment - and look forward to a happier future.

So - when you are ready - I will count to five and I want you to come all the way back at the count of five - and bring back with you all the learning that your subconscious mind has acquired today - and the anticipation of freedom from fear - freedom to live your life to the full - just as you are destined to do.

One - two - three - coming slowly back - four - eyelids beginning to flutter - and five - eyes open - wide awake - mind and body returning to normal, conscious awareness.
